Waxed Plum Field Bag: Back in Stock

With a bag as wildly popular, handsome and hard-working as the original Fringe Field Bag, it's hard to imagine how it could get any better. We are unequivocally in love with the full range of Field Bags; if you have one, you absolutely understand the cult-like following they have, and we hope that you, like us, believe the Waxed Plum was undeniably the missing piece. If you don't have a Field Bag, but you've been tempted, on the fence, or waiting for a color, perhaps, that was a little more you, well. Dare we say this might be it? A gorgeous plummy wine (both red and purple!), this waxed canvas bag is stain-resistant, water-resistant, will soften and age with grace, and perhaps best of all, made by hands (and brilliant minds!) ethically, sustainably and proudly in the USA.

Sleeping Bear Yarn Club: Manning Light

We are thrilled to announce the April 2019 selection for the Sleeping Bear Yarn Club: Manning Light. Dyed exclusively for us by Heather of Earl Grey Fiber Co. in Washington, this light, bright skein feels like hope on the horizon. Whites and blues, with speckles everywhere, this skein reminds us of the season's first blustery beach walk.

The Manning Memorial Light, also known as the Robert H. Manning Memorial Lighthouse or Manning Light is a lighthouse located near Empire, Michigan. Mr. Manning was a longtime resident of Empire. Manning enjoyed fishing offshore, and often returned from these boat trips late at night. He often remarked to friends and relatives he wished a lighthouse was in the area to aid that navigation. After his death in 1989, friends and relatives raised funds to build the lighthouse as a memorial and was illuminated in 1990. It is the second newest lighthouse in Michigan -- and one of three memorial lights in Michigan.
